

history...

St Killians Church was built in 1879. Nestled within a rustic landscape, St Killians was once the centre of a busy hamlet with five hotels and a Cobb & Co Inn. St Killians also played an integral part in the Brookfield picnic races.

After serving the farming community for 100 years, the church was closed in 1982 and left to an undetermined future.

Now lovingly restored as luxury accommodation, St Killians features original stained glass windows, quaint choir loft and kauri timber floors.
